In his April budget the chancellor increased taxes on everybody earning more than £100,000 and introduced a new top rate of 50% on incomes above £150,000. He said this would only affect the very well-off.

How much do you think you need to earn each year to be 'very well-off' in Britain these days?

As you may know, most Gurkha soldiers from Nepal who joined the British army but retired before 1997 are NOT allowed to settle in Britain. Recently the Government announced plans to allow some to settle in Britain, if they were in the Army for at least 20 years, or won awards for gallantry, or were injured in battle.

Which of the following statements most closely represents your view on this?

All Gurkhas who served for Britain and their families should be allowed to settle in	74	78	70	78	75	74	63	79	79	73	75	72	74	76	75	73
